Northern Is... (2019)

Client: Herff Jones; Northern Durham High School

Medium: Adobe Illustrator, Adobe InDesign, 4-Color Litho Process with Gloss Lamination

This yearbook cover was designed for Northern Durham High School, themed as a Google Doodle. I illustrated this cover based on the school's submitted sketches, with two rounds of corrections. In addition, the illustrations, together and individually, were used as internal page art.

Day of Caring Logo Redesign (2016)

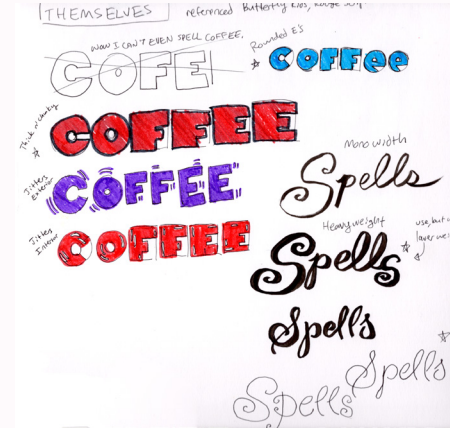

Client: Sherri Lupton, United Way of Springfield, MO

Medium: Adobe Illustrator, Adobe InDesign

For my Senior Design Practicum, I worked directly with Sheri Lupton, Chief Financial Officer of the United Way of Springfield, Missouri, to update a logo for their annual Day of Caring volunteer event. Over the course of four months, we brought the logo in line with the United Way's current branding, and established potential uses for the new logo.

Coffee and Spells (2019)

Client: Annie Craton, Crooked Russian Cam

Medium: Adobe Photoshop

“Coffee and Spells” was inspired by Jemjammer, the Dungeons and Dragons podcast from Crooked Russian Cam. One of the hosts, Annie Craton, came up with the text for this coffee mug, and I illustrated the text for their use on merchandise. This design is currently available through Redbubble.

Brian and Emily's Baby Shower (2020)

Client: Personal project, with Nancy Woods

Medium: Adobe Photoshop, Adobe Illustrator, Adobe InDesign, paper

In December, my mother and I organized a baby shower for my brother and sister-in-law. Because they chose to not know their baby's gender, we decided on a gender-neutral theme of jungle animals. My mother found reference images and assembled the physical invitations, and I illustrated and laid out the invitations.

A-Men: Fireside Chat (2021)

Client: Personal project

Medium: Procreate

My Dungeons and Dragons campaign had a slow moment recently. After a long four days in-game, our characters went camping and got to know each other a little better. It was a very heartfelt and beautiful scene. My character is furthest to the right.

Thank you!
